

18th September 2012

To whom it may concern

Antares has been contracting the services of Smart Solutions as a registered First Aid training company for several years now.

Andrew Miller is a passionate, enthusiastic and dedicated professional who has many years of hands-on practical experience, deep rooted beliefs and ethical morals when it comes to providing emergency care for a patient. The values that Andrew instils during his training sessions are the same as what we believe in and as such we feel he is our best option available to pass on the same standards to the students that we train in our business.

We have a strong belief that First aid training should be conducted for saving a patients life and not simply another paper legality that is required to become a legal field guide. As such we would only promote an individual who has the same belief and we can without doubt claim that Andrew fulfils these important criteria and that he does it with absolute passion and dedication.

Yours sincerely

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Ian Owtram', written in a cursive style.

Ian Owtram
Owner- Antares Field Guide Training Centre